Lake coalition supporting list of candidates

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

A record number of cottagers have turned out to vote in this year's municipal elections, and they're getting some help in deciding how to mark their ballots.

The Coalition of Anson, Hindon and Minden Ratepayer Associations (CAHMRA) is circulating a slate of candidates it would like to see elected to municipal council and school board positions.

CAHMRA is an umbrella organization which represents 12 lake associations in the municipality. It was formed earlier this year to increase voter turn-out among seasonal residents and make sure concerns of lakefront residents are addressed during the election.

The list, which has been circulated to the members of the various associations, recommends Bern Berry for reeve; Lewis Stevens for deputy-reeve; Grant Plooard and Jean Anthon for council; and Mike Kitcheman, John Purc and any one of the three incumbents for school board trustee.

Verne Gilbert, president of the Horseshoe Lake Property Owners Association and a leading member of CAHMRA, says the slate was drawn up by the coalition's executive members and is only supposed to serve as a "recommendation" for voters.

Gilbert says the coalition does not expect members to cast their ballot strictly according to the slate and hopes people still use their own judgement in making a final decision.

In some cases, lake associations have amended the list and have recommended that their members support candidates other than those on the CAHMRA slate.

The inclusion of Anthon and Plooard on the list should come as no surprise. Both candidates announced their intention to run shortly after the coalition formed and were endorsed by CAHMRA. The coalition developed an election platform, but neither Plooard nor Anthon adopted the platform outright and both candidates reserved the right to run their campaigns according to their own issues and priorities.

As for the selection of which reeve and deputy-reeve candidates to support, Gilbert says CAHMRA reviewed the atti-

Teenager missing from camping trip in Park

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Police are continuing their search for a Toronto area teenager who went missing in Algonquin Park more than a week ago.

Mark Wai Lam, 19-years-old, was on a high school camping trip in the Park when he became separated from the rest of his group. He was last seen November 3, on a hiking trail near the West Gate entrance to the park on Highway 60.

About 150 searchers conducted a three-day ground search of the area where Lam disappeared but turned up no clues as to the youth's whereabouts.

Included in the search were OPP officers, MNR staff and civilians. Tracking dogs and a helicopter fitted with infrared heat-seeking equipment were also brought in.

According to officers from the OPP's

Whitney detachment, Lam was carrying winter camping gear, food and a propane stove when he went missing, and they say there is a good chance he could have survived the elements.

Police have suspended the ground search are now investigating the possibility that Lam accepted a ride while trying to hitchhike out of the Park and they have received more than 40 calls from people who have reported seeing someone matching Lam's description.

Lam was last seen wearing blue jeans, a green jacket, Kodiak boots, a Minnesota Twins baseball cap and carrying a large blue backpack. He is described as being Oriental, five feet 10 inches tall, weighing 140 pounds with short black hair.

Anyone with information about Lam's whereabouts or who has seen a person matching his description should call (613) 637-2622.

Election '91

Berry left out of questionnaire results

Minden Reeve Bern Berry says he was unfairly omitted from the list of candidates who responded to the questionnaire distributed by the Haliburton County Taxpayers Coalition.

Last week, The Times ran the results of the questionnaire based on the information provided by the coalition. On the list of answers given by the candidates, the coalition indicated that Berry had responded to the questionnaire but would not allow the answers to be published, so the reeve's responses were not included in the chart which was published.

In a letter to the newspaper, Berry says he did not deny permission. "The statement is not only inaccurate, but I feel extremely harmful in the midst of the election process," the letter said.

The confusion has arisen over the manner with which Berry completed the coalition's questionnaire. The last page of the package is a form which candidates were expected to complete in order for the information to be released. Berry crossed out the signature line which was provided on the form and typed his own comments on the page. He then signed his name below the typed comments.

In the comments, Berry asked the coalition to let him know, in writing, how many candidates had responded to the questionnaire and how the information was going to be evaluated.

Bill Payne, one of the coalition members who was involved in collecting the answers and providing the information to the newspaper, says that, because Berry did not sign in the space provided on the form, he could not include Berry's answers with the other candidates.

Berry says that by signing the page under his typed comments he was signifying his permission to have the answers published.

In order to address Berry's concerns and provide the same opportunity to him as was given to the other responding candidates, The Times has agreed to publish the reeve's answers to the questionnaire.

Cottagers vote by slate

tude of each candidate and how they responded to lakefront concerns.

In considering the candidates, CAHMRA looked at the issues of the North Steel re-zoning near Canning Lake and the zoning of the Blairhampton Golf Course near Horseshoe Lake. In both cases the lakefront associations made submissions to council requesting that development potential near the lakes be limited.

Gilbert says CAHMRA didn't just consider how the councillors voted in each situation, but considered whether or not the arguments put forward by the lake associations were seriously considered.

"We don't expect them to vote our way every time, but we want them to look at both sides of the question," he said. "It's a question of attitude."

When it came to selecting candidates for school board trustee, Gilbert says CAHMRA followed the criteria of the Haliburton County taxpayers' coalition in deciding to support Purc and Kitchman.

Although CAHMRA was formed in order to increase the participation of seasonal residents in the election, Gilbert says the coalition did not react as radically as it could have.

"We refrained from running people for all five positions," he said. "We could have swamped council."

Even with the endorsement of Anthon and Plooard, Gilbert says CAHMRA chose permanent residents and did not "parachute" people into the election.

Although he doesn't know what effect the slate will have on the outcome of the election, Gilbert says CAHMRA has already achieved its goal of getting more cottagers to the polls.

At the first advance poll on November 2, 473 votes were cast and another 246 people voted at the second poll last Wednesday.

A third advance poll, which was added by council at CAHMRA's request, was held on Saturday and municipal staff were expecting another large turn-out. There are about 6,300 eligible voters in the municipality.

Gilbert says the number of voters at the advance polls lived up to his "wildest expectations".

CAHMRA had also hoped to encourage residents to take advantage of proxy votes so ballots could be cast on behalf of those voters which could not make it back to the county on one of the polling days. More than 100 proxy votes were cast at the first two advance polls and municipal staff estimate that more than 700 proxy forms are in the hands of voters.

Gilbert says lake associations expended a great deal of time and effort in promoting the election and coordinating the use of proxies.

With the level of voter discontent evident around the province this year, Gilbert says there probably would have been an increase in participation even without CAHMRA's efforts.

What the lakefront coalition accomplished was to "stir people up" he says, and change the nature of the political process for the foreseeable future. "The tax coalition played an enormous part. We started ahead of them, but we've been riding the wave they created," said Gilbert.

"Win, lose or draw, we've contributed something this year."

Federations host meeting

Trustee candidates address teachers' concerns

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

School board candidates tackled education issues in a slightly different context last Thursday night.

Candidates from Minden, Stanhope and Sherborne attended the second of two meetings, sponsored by the local teachers' federations, in the library of Archie Stouffer Elementary School. The first meeting, held at J.D. Hodgson in Haliburton Village, featured candidates from Dysart, Monmouth, Glamorgan, Cardiff and Bicroft.

The Minden meeting, which attracted an audience of about 65 people, differed from previous gatherings in that the focus was less on education costs and more on the quality of education provided in the local system.

The teachers also distributed a questionnaire to the candidates and the answers were posted in the hall outside the library.

The nine candidates were introduced by moderator Harry Davis, who is the retiring reeve of Stanhope. Absent were Minden candidate Mike Kitcheman; Elsa Louise May, who is the acclaimed trustee in Snowdon; and Cheryl Murdoch, who is the acclaimed trustee in Lutterworth.

During the first portion of the meeting the candidates had five minutes with which to address the audience and present their platforms.

Minden candidates Wally Bunn, Marian Harris, Wendy Ladurantaye, Norm Mills, John Purc and Mary Anne Wilson were the first to speak.

Bunn, who was first elected to the board three years ago, said he has gained a lot of experience through his involvement in board committees. He said he believes the board should operate in an open manner and must continue to work to further the quality of education in the county.

Harris said she was pleased to receive the questionnaire which focused more on educational issues that the form distributed by the tax coalition. She said her background as a teacher in Holland and as a volunteer in local classrooms has given her experience which would allow her to contribute to the school board's operations.

Ladurantaye, who has served on the board for six years and is a past-chairman, said her pet issue is the level of provincial funding, which is now 28 per cent of the budget, received by Haliburton County. She listed her goals as being the accommodation crisis; better communication with the public; continuing to be well-informed as a trustee; and lobbying the government for increased funding.

Mills said the direction in which the provincial government is heading has created problems for the local board which must be addressed. School buildings are an expensive asset which are not being used as efficiently as they could be, said Mills. He also said there has to be a balance between the modern, child-centred method of teaching and the more structured approach based on the three R's of reading, writing and arithmetic.

Purc said, that while his opinions do not always coincide with those of the other candidates, his statements are not meant to be derogatory. He said he advocates spending restraint and that, during a recession, high tax increases are not healthy for the local economy. He also supports a more open board and said the public should have more input into decisions.

Wilson, who is completing her first term as trustee, said she has enjoyed serving on the board and has been able to devote a great deal of time to the position of trustee.

She said trustees have to be prepared to be involved in the day-to-day operation of the board and also participate in the larger, provincial issues which impact on the local system.

Sherborne's acclaimed trustee John Munro said he first became involved in education issues four years ago when the Dorset School was declared a candidate for closure. Munro was appointed to the board last term to fill a vacancy left by Ed de Grosbois, who resigned. (more on page 5)

Addition decision is criticized

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

While there has been some debate about the board of education's decision to put an addition on Archie Stouffer Elementary School, at last Thursday's candidates' meeting the process by which that decision was made also came under attack.

Several times during the meeting, candidates said they believed that the board should be operating in a more open manner and have better communication with the public.

But during the question period Bernie Davis, who is a teacher at Archie Stouffer, brought up the point that the decision to expand Archie Stouffer had been made without teachers, parents and members of the community being given the chance to comment on the options which the trustees were considering.

Minden trustee Mary Anne Wilson, who voted against the proposed expansion, said Davis' concerns were valid. "This process did not follow the guidelines," she said. "Input from the public was inadvertently omitted."

Some of the incumbents said that the board's decision is not carved in stone and can still be re-considered. This being the case, Minden candidate John Purc suggested that the expansion project should be put on hold until all taxpayers have a chance to comment on the proposal.

Wendy Ladurantaye, who is seeking re-election after six years as a Minden trustee, said that in the past there has not been much interest by the public in school board operation.

She said the fact that people now want to know what is going on is "wonderful". If people have concerns about the expansion, Ladurantaye suggested they should make their feelings known to the board. If there is enough response from the public, she said the board will seriously consider their input.

Minden trustee Wally Bunn said trustees have not received many calls on the issue of accommodation and wondered why, if people have concerns, they didn't contact members of the board.

An audience member responded by saying the trustee should not wait for someone to call, but should call a public meeting to discuss the issues.

Meeting focused on quality of education system

Munro said he was surprised, when he joined to board, to discover that there was no long-term plan to deal with the problems of accommodation. He also said that the board is not doing a very good job of maintaining its existing buildings, and that maintenance is one area of the budget which seems to get cut every year in an effort to reduce spending.

Stanhope's incumbent trustee LeRoy Eager said he thinks the minimum drop-out age should be raised from 16 to 18-years-old so more students would stay in school and graduate. Eager said he, like the other candidates, opposed the implementation of Junior Kindergarten and estimates it would cost the board between $500,000 and $700,000 a year. With the number of programs being mandated by the provincial government, he said local boards are coming close to losing their autonomy. He said his main objective will be to stabilize costs.

The final candidate to speak was Trevor

Pawson, who is challenging Eager for the position of trustee in Stanhope. Pawson said the board faces a lot of challenges in trying to reduce costs and address the problem of overcrowding. He said students will face a great deal of pressure when they enter the workforce and the board has an obligation to provide the best education possible.

Junior high school

After the intermission, the candidates fielded a series of questions from members of the audience. The first issue raised was the recent decision by the board of education to put and addition on Archie Stouffer and establish a school in Haliburton to accommodate Grades 7, 8 and 9 in one building.

Wilson said she voted against the proposal because she had a lot of concerns about the decision and the information was presented to the trustees only a short time before the vote.

Munro said he was absent the night of the vote but is against the idea of larger schools. He said he neither strongly supports or opposes the concept of a junior high school.

Eager said he supported the proposal because it addressed three problems faced by the board - a shortage of elementary space in Minden, a shortage of elementary space in Haliburton and an expected shortage of space at the high school. But Eager said the board's decision is not carved in stone and the proposed junior high school will not be built until 1997 or 1998.

Purc said he thought a separate school for Grades 7, 8 and 9 would create a redundant building and he would rather see an addition built on to the high school.

Mills said building a new school would be a major expense and he suggested the board look at establishing schools with larger student populations, which he said would be more efficient.

Ladurantaye, who abstained from the vote, said she could not support the proposals. She said she would like to see accommodation needs addressed in terms of the entire county, and demographics support the idea of an elementary school built in the area north of Minden and Haliburton.

Harris said she would not have supported the idea of junior high school because she feels students in those grades should be kept in familiar surroundings.

Bunn, who served as co-chairman of the accommodation committee, said he supported the motion because it addressed the accommodation crisis in Minden village and would get students out of portables and the old IGA store.

Cost versus quality

Purc and Mills were asked how they intended to maintain the quality of education offered in the county and, at the same time, reduce property taxes.

Purc said it is unrealistic to think property taxes will be reduced, but he thinks increases should be limited to a reasonable amount and alternative solutions will have to be developed in order to achieve this.

Mills agreed that there will be some increase in education taxes. He said there county does not have a lot of money and that the community should become more involved in education as a way to reduce costs.

Teacher's sick days

Purc was put on the hot seat by several teachers in the audience when he suggested that the 20 paid sick days the teachers get each year is excessive. He said that teachers who are willing to come to school when they are sick, rather than taking a day off, should be paid a premium for their dedication.

Munro reacted to Purc's statement and said he was "shocked" at the suggestion that teachers should work when sick, and said any teacher doing so would be acting under "misguided dedication."

Informed choice

Earlier this year, lake associations in Anson, Hindon and Minden joined forces in an attempt to increase the participation of their membership in this year's elections and, to that end, they've succeeded admirably.

They asked for, and were granted, and additional advance poll. There were concerns at council about the added expense given the historically low turn-out at the two advance days required by legislation, but those concerns were put to rest when a record number of voters cast their ballots last week.

But the lakefront coalition went one step forward when it distributed a list of candidates it wanted members to support.

Without passing judgement on the candidates whose names appear on the slate, or the intentions of the coalition, we are concerned with any action which limits the democratic process of elections.

Last week, there were reports of some voters casting their ballots according to the slate without even being familiar with the candidates they were supporting. In some cases they weren't even sure, without checking the list, who they had voted for after they cast their ballot.

While we support the right of all residents to take advantage of the electoral process, the responsibility of enfranchisement should carry with it an obligation to make the most informed choice possible. Voting according to the subjective criteria established by someone else is not living up to that obligation.

We wonder if encouraging people to vote blindfolded fosters an environment of increased involvement in the community at large, which is also a stated goal of the lakefront coalition. The mere act of voting does not constitute community involvement. The act of informed voting is a step toward that laudable objective.

There is a valuable lesson for all residents in the efforts of the coalition. Given the difficulties of time and distance which face seasonal residents who live outside the county, their success in getting people to the polls should be applauded and admired.

Those of us with easy access to a polling station can have no legitimate excuse for not taking a hand in choosing the men and women who will serve as our elected representatives for the next three years.

If you care about the future of your community, get out and vote.

Wishing the military could just say no to war

Well, the end of the century is less than a decade off, and you can bet your Bartlett's Quotations that the editors of Maclean's, Time and Newsweek will soon start pumping out special "commemorative" issues, summing up the highs and lows of the past hundred years of human achievement.

They'll talk of Bell's telephone and Edison's lightbulb. They will remind us of Gandhi's grace and Hitler's infamy.

The editors will quibble over the most famous phrase of the twentieth century. Some will say it was Churchill's "blood, sweat and tears". Others will vote for Neil Armstrong's "one small step for man...". One or two might give the nod to McLuhan's "the medium is the message."

Not me. My vote for the most significant phrase of the twentieth century goes to a children's poster that appeared back in the 1960's. It was a simple question scrawled naively in black poster paint on a piece of green construction paper. It asked:

What if we gave a war and nobody came?

The poster didn't get a lot of national attention in the sixties. I saw it reproduced on T-shirts at folk festivals once in a while, but that was it.

The slogan disappeared, but not the sensibility. The notion that wars are something that each of us can choose not to fight, sank beneath human consciousness like one of those delayed reaction depth charges destroyers drop on submarines.

If you've been listening closely over the past few years you might have heard the denotations.

There was a loud one in the courtyard of Malacanang Palace in the Philippines a few years back when Ferdinand and Imelda Marcos tries to crush the popular movement that eventually drove them from the country. It all came to one moment when the Philippine army, its tanks and sol-

Glamorgan candidate did not accuse Chamber of mismanagement

Editor:

I was amazed to read the article as submitted by Shawn Hagerman (Chamber News) in last week's paper pertaining to the Chamber and the all-candidates night of October 26, whereby of all candidates, I was the only person who was personally attacked and misinterpreted.

On November 7, I spoke with Mr. Hagerman and told him of my concerns with reference to his article. As with every institution there comes a time to re-evaluate goals and objectives, especially with our complex and diversified markets. Perhaps there is a need to look at more effective financial administration which would best serve as many people as is possible with all parties involved in Chamber activities. This is not accusing mismanagement by Chamber of Commerce directors and my comments were only meant to be taken as constructive initiatives which every business should undertake periodically.

As for personal animosity about the Chamber, I would like to get the record straight, that no such opinion or comment has ever been stated by myself.

Constructive criticism can be beneficial, but I do not appreciate being a target in such a negative and unjustified manner. Perhaps Mr. Hagerman should have contacted me prior to his write-up in the newspaper thereby allowing me the opportunity to explain my comments, if he did not understand them in the context for which they were meant and not wrongly interpreted.

Tourist is disillusioned with area

Editor:

Recently I have had the opportunity to spend a weekend in the most beautiful sun-burst bliss of Haliburton. The idea was to relax in the peacefulness with a fountain of colors, rustling leaves and watching little furry creatures scurrying for the cold winter days ahead.

Sounds nice, eh? Think again! I arrived at my friends cottage in my little yellow imported sports car to find a woman standing with a camera taking pictures of me and my car.

After looking at the large signs nailed to the trees saying "No Trespassing" and "Trespassers Will Be Prosecuted", I knew she wasn't taking pictures in admiration of my car.

My friend has had her cottage for twenty-two years, and for the past 18 years I've been coming up here to visit and have always parked in the large area at the top of the hill to my friends cottage. Well, I pulled my car alongside the road and parked on what we knew as township property and hoped for the best.

Apparently, three weeks prior to my visit this same woman who was taking the pictures threw rocks through my friends station wagon, demolishing her car! (Charges were laid by police.) To put it mildly, I was a little concerned about my car.

The gist is, that these things usually happen in Toronto - not cottage country! It's a shame our most beautiful and vast northland - a breakaway from the norm hustle and bustle of dog-eat-dog city life - should come to this! Can't we be courteous and share when we have ample space?

My friend had her cottage for 22 years and prior to this year hasn't had any problems with previous neighbors, until unkind neighbours moved in - which seems to get down to the basics of property lines.

Apparently, surveys are not the answer. It's a township problem. Tell me, how can cottage lots be sold without any access to their property to build or maintain their cottages?

There is only one solution, the township must accommodate investors in the community. After all, cottagers have a lot to offer the northland. The main factor is that they pay taxes and spend money in the community, thus creating small businesses, jobs and overall stimulation of the community. This creates community profit.

Just one question about land sales. How can the township sell land without access to their property or lots?

Board trustees in control of teachers' wages

Editor:

I am always concerned when the myth that teacher's wages are included in areas (or whatever) that boards have little control over is perpetuated by those in public office or in your case, in the media.

I refer to paragraph six in your editorial of October 28. Granted that having signed a two year agreement, the board has no control next year, but after that... There is no reason why further negotiations need add further to the mill-rate.

The board has as much control as its negotiations allow, given political factors on both sides, board and federation.

You may remember my letter to Mrs Murdoch last May in which I stated the same concern (among many others.) You were kind enough to publish this open letter in The Times.

It is conceded that trustees may agree to higher salaries, but to say they have little control is quite misleading. It is their job to be fiscally responsible, as well as being responsible for the education of the children in Haliburton County.

It is a fine line to tread, as you noted in the second last paragraph of your editorial.

Yours truly,
V.K. Gilbert

No link between vaccine and Chronic Fatigue

Editor:

I am told that the alleged link between the Hepatitis B vaccination and Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (Yuppie Flu) has been reported by the news media in this area.

Past experience suggests that many who read of this completely unsubstantiated charge will use it as another illogical reason for not becoming vaccinated and thereby protected against this very serious and increasingly prevalent disease.

We continue to see deaths due to the aftermath of Hepatitis B in Ontario in numbers comparable to those from AIDS. It is, by the way, twenty times easier to contact Hepatitis B than it is AIDS, and the methods of infection are the same - that is, transmitted through sexual contact and through infected blood or other body fluids.

Of the 6700 cases estimated to occur in Ontario each year, 400 - 600 will go on to be chronic carriers, which means that although without symptoms themselves, they can infect others for many, many years. Another 150 will die as a result of cirrhosis, 29 will die from liver cancer and another 10 will die from acute Hepatitis B.

Dr. Lee of the Canadian Liver Foundation, commenting on the Ottawa doctor's allegation potential Yuppie Flu said, "There is no medical evidence for such a preposterous statement. How any physician could make such a damaging allegation without a shred of evidence is appalling. It's medically impossible for any disease to be transmitted by the vaccines in current use against Hepatitis B and the public have nothing to fear from vaccination. On the contrary, the incidence of Hepatitis B has been skyrocketing in Canada in recent years which makes it important for Canadians to seriously consider immunization against the disease."

The Laboratory Centre for Disease Control of Health and Welfare Canada supports the view of the Canadian Liver Foundation. The long term studies carried out by the World Health Organization and studies done on groups such as police and fire fighters have not shown Yuppie Flu to follow Hepatitis B vaccination.

All responsible and Knowledgeable physicians of medical organizations support the use of this very safe vaccine, particularly for high risk groups such as doctors, dentists, health care workers, police and fire fighters.

It is safe, effective and should be more widely used.

Sincerely,
D.E. Mikel, M.D., D.P.H.

dieters massed and menacing, was ordered to fore on the demonstrators in front of the palace.

The troops refused, and the Marcos dynasty shuddered and died in that instant.

Who can forget the Chinese student, white-shirted, standing calmly in front of —and stopping— a line of government tanks in Tienamen Square?

It happened in Romania when the disgustingly corrupt Ceausescue regime ordered the troops to massacre protesters.

Once more, the troops refused.

And it's just been revealed that, but for a handful of soldiers, the recent attempted Soviet coup d'etat would have been a bloodbath. One of the coup leaders, chairman Vladimir Kryuchkov, ordered a KGB anti-terrorist unit to storm the Russian parliament building and capture President Boris Yeltsin. The troops refused. "We couldn't fight against our own people" said a KGB officer, "and this our former chairman didn't take into consideration."

All these show great bravery on the part of unarmed protesters, but that's not the point. We've always had handfuls of brave people ready to die for their beliefs. What's revolutionary is that each incident features soldiers thinking for themselves.

What frightening prospect for the military mind.

If I had my way, I'd flood the world with T-shirts with the slogan WHAT IF WE GAVE A WAR AND NOBODY CAME? emblazoned on the front. And on the back of the shirt I'd print a photo from one of the Gulf War videos that the U.S. military censors refuse to release. It shows Iraqi soldiers being sliced in half by helicopter cannon fire. A senior Pentagon official explained the censorship, saying "If we let people see that kind of thing, there would never be any war."

Gosh, we couldn't have that, could we?

A voyage on Sunship Earth

Students from Archie Stouffer Elementary School learn to "tread lightly"

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Recently, a group of 57 Grade Six students from Archie Stouffer Elementary School experienced the wonder of travelling aboard a spaceship.

And they never left Haliburton County.

The students, and their teachers, were participating in the Sunship Earth program at Camp Wanakita near Donald. Sunship Earth is a four-day environmental program which tries to show young people some new ways to think about the planet on which we live.

"We want to open kids' eyes up and help teach them how to live a little more lightly on earth," says program director John Munro.

Instead of feeding the students a lot of scientific jargon about the ecology, Munro explains that Sunship Earth attempts to "show" participants the manner in which nature operates using a hands-on approach.

"We get them outside doing things that help get the point across," he says. "They get involved in prop-oriented activities where they handle, wear and pass around different objects and get their hands dirty in the soil."

The message of Sunship Earth is based on the "seven secrets of life" contained the letters ECDICA which stand for Energy flow; Cycles; Diversity; Community; Inter-relationships; Change and Adaptation.

The name of the program is derived from the concept of the planet as a vessel travelling through space.

"Earth is like a spaceship," says Munro. "All our life-support systems are on the earth and we are powered by the sun."

Using this idea, the program reminds students that we must be careful how we use our planets resources.

"We can't fly to an intergalactic Seven-Eleven when we run out of water," says Munro.

Winding among the trees throughout the camp are three concept paths and along each path are five activity stations where the students are introduced to the seven secrets of life in action.

At one station, called the Food Factory, the students learn how plants convert air, water and sunlight into food through the process of photosynthesis.

They actually participate in the process by playing the part of workers in a large wooden structure shaped like a leaf. By pretending to be inside a leaf they manipulate ping-pong balls (which represent oxygen, carbon and hydrogen molecules) to change air, water and sunlight into carbohydrates which the plants consume as food.

As they work their way through the various stations, the students carry with them "passports" which list the concepts being taught. At each station, the students read the appropriate concept, perform the activity, and then develop their own examples of the process they have just experienced.

Guiding the students through the program are high school students who serve as camp counsellors. Munro says the high school students are the key aspect to Sunship Earth as they fulfil the roles of teacher, parent, role model and friend.

Besides emphasizing an emotion, as opposed to scientific, approach to nature and the environment, Munro says the program also tries to foster a sense of magic and mystery for the students.

Instead of using their usual names, participants adopt names taken from nature. Munro is known to the students as "Storm".

The cabins in which the students sleep are not identified by number but are all named for an endangered species, like the Beluga Whale.

At the end of the week, the students attend a campfire where they listen to an old Indian storyteller recount the legend of the Aurora Indians and how they learned the seven secrets of life. As they enjoy the story, the students can also relate their own experiences at the camp as they reflect on what they have been taught.

By adding the elements of magic and mystery, Munro says Sunship Earth becomes something special to the students and not just a routine field-trip.

The Sunship Earth program has been running for six years and was developed by the Institute for Earth Education, which is a volunteer organization made up of teachers, professors and outdoor education specialist. Based in Wisconsin, the Institute now has branches all over the world.

The visit by students from Archie Stouffer was supported by the Minden Rotary Club, which donated $4,200 and the Home and School Association, which donated $250.

Greg Simmons and Wayne Phillips present a guided tour of "Lepmore" the national park they designed for leprechauns, as part of the Sunship Earth program. The park includes miniature hiking trails, a mud slide and hotel.

HHSS Sunship counsellors nominated as junior citizens

The students from Haliburton Highlands Secondary School who served as crew counsellors at camp Wanakita's Sunship Earth program have been nominated to receive an Ontario

Junior Citizen of the Year Award. The nomination form was prepared by Mary Anne Wilson, a Minden trustee on the Haliburton County Board of Education. She has submitted the form to The Times and it will now be forwarded to for consideration among all those received from across the province.

In nominating the counsellors Wilson said, "The contribution made by these young people is meaningful and worthy of recognition. Their dedication, enthusiasm and energy creates an atmosphere of fun and excitement and environmental awareness for the grade six students in their care." She noted that the program at the local camp has attracted attention world-wide.

Wilson pointed out that not only do the HHSS Sunship crew counsellors assist in the environmental program for the elementary school children in their charge, they also increase their own awareness of environmental issues, often bringing these values back to their lives in school, home and community. The close, 24 hour a day, contact creates a bond between the counsellors and the young students and often results in a better understanding of interpersonal relationships and caring.

The nomination points out that about 60 students from HHSS take part in the program each year, represent-

by Susan Wilson

Since the day after Labour Day, a hundred people have gathered every Tuesday evening at St. George's Anglican Church in Haliburton to rehearse George Frederic Handel's great oratorio, Messiah.

They come from many corners of the county, representing church choirs of every denominational stripe. There are also a few strays, like myself, who belong to no choir, but relish the opportunity to perform this wonderful masterpiece once again. Some of the singers are new to the work, some are veterans of presentations at other times in other places. Together we are working towards three performances to be given at the Haliburton Legion on December 8, 10, and 15.

The production is coming together, over 14 weeks of rehearsal, under the musical direction of two of the county's leading musicians. Melissa Stephens, organist and choirmaster at Haliburton United Church and Zion United Church in Carnarvon, is conducting. Bill Gliddon, organist and choirmaster at St. George's, is providing the organ accompaniment. He has also worked extensively with the soloists, coaching them in their recitatives and arias.

But it is fair to say that the person most responsible for bringing this happy project to life is Wayne Cooper. When he lived in Toronto, Wayne was a member of the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir, Canada's leading choral society, which will celebrate its 100th anniversary in 1994. Messiah has long been a staple of the Mendelssohn's pre-Christmas repertoire and anyone who belongs to that choir becomes intimately familiar with it. (One of the surest proofs of Handel's genius lies in the fact that such repetitive familiarity with this work breeds, not contempt, but growing love.)

After moving to Haliburton, where he heads the French Department at the high school, Wayne began to dream of putting Messiah on here. Last spring, he approached Melissa and Bill, and said, Let's do it! Both of them were apprehensive because they were under no illusions about the enormous amount of work it would entail. Not just musical preparation, but organizational and logistical co-ordination. However, once Wayne offered to act as Choir Manager and take care of all those endless details, they both agreed enthusiastically. After that, it was just a matter of putting out the word.

Among the decisions they had to make were which parts of the oratorio to present. For reasons of length, Messiah is rarely performed nowadays in its entirety. (During Handel's lifetime, the work was, in one series of concerts, spread over two evenings.) Since the performances at the Legion immediately precede Christmas, it was decided to include all of the first part, which deals with the messianic prophecies and the birth of Jesus. Selections were made from the second part, which takes us through the Passion and Resurrection, and the third part, which offers an extended commentary on Christ's role as saviour.

Although we have come to associate Messiah with the Christmas season, its subject matter encompasses all of Christ's life, as well as time before and after. It was Handel's custom to present the work just before Easter, which is not surprising when we consider that the bulk of the work is devoted to the events leading up to that church festival and beyond.

In keeping with the communal nature of the project, members of the choir were invited to audition for the solos that the three organizers had decided to include. Twenty did so and 15 were selected. This is a radical, and admirable, departure from the usual practice of assigning only four singers (often imported), one for each of the soprano, contralto, tenor, and bass voices represented in the solos.

In addition to the regular weekly rehearsals, these chosen few have given their time to vocal coachings with Bill Gliddon and to soloists' workshops. Here we have had a chance to try our pieces out in front of each other before graduating to performing them in front of the choir and, ultimately, for the audience. Along with getting a handle on our nerves, the work-

Wayne Cooper, Melissa Stephens, and Bill Gliddon are the guiding hands behind the performances of Handel's oratorio, Messiah, which will be given at the Haliburton Legion on December 8, 10, and 15 by a 100-voice chorus and an array of soloists. Their musical and organization leadership are making rehearsals a pleasure and bode well for the success of the three performances.

shops are providing an opportunity for further collaboration by getting each others' comments and suggestions on vocal production and interpretation.

A place in musical history

Messiah holds a unparalleled place in the choral repertoire for many reasons. The text was compiled for Handel by Charles Jennens (perhaps the work's unsung hero) entirely from the Scriptures, both Old and New Testaments. Handel composed the music in little more than three weeks in the late summer of 1741.

That a work of such proportions could come together so quickly seems amazing to us. But Handel, as a businessman and a man of the theatre, was in the habit of working quickly and it is possible that, like many other composers past and present, he worked out much of the score in his head before starting to commit it to paper. (Frankly, he also borrowed from himself in several instances, setting portions of Jennens' text to music he had written for other purposes a month or so earlier.)

Messiah is also unique within the oratorio repertoire because, rather than telling a story through dialogue and dramatization, it unveils its theme — which Jennens characterized as the "Mystery of Godliness" — through commentary, with very few instances of direct speech.

In recitatives and arias (the former rather like sung speech, the latter more conventional songs), the soloists take on a variety of parts: presenting the Old Testament prophecies, describing what is happening, and reflecting Christian belief.

The chorus has a dominant role throughout, playing many "characters", from the angelic chorus announcing the birth of Jesus ("Glory to God") to the savage mob calling on a deaf god to rescue the crucified Christ ("He trusted in God") to the exultant body of the Church Triumphant acknowledging its saviour ("Worthy is the Lamb"). But in many other instances, the choir also stands back to observe and describe the action.

Jennens' genius lies in his choice of texts and the order he put them in. It is through his skilful juxtaposition of verses from widely separated parts of the Bible that the story unfolds.

While it was well received at its first performance in Dublin, Ireland, on April 13, 1742, and at its first London performance on March 23, 1743, Messiah did not begin to attain its current legendary status until the last decade of the composer's life. By the time of his death in 1759, it had become a regular feature of the Lenten theatrical season in London and was also performed annually for the benefit, always lucrative, of the Foundling Hospital in that city, of whose board Handel was a member. Messiah also became widely known outside London and was soon a staple at the large choral festivals that dotted the British musical landscape in the late 18th and early 19th centuries. It also migrated across the English Channel and became well known and respected in Handel's native Germany.

In the 250 years since it was written, Messiah has attained a unrivalled place in the regard and affection of audiences and musicians alike, in spite of the fact that is a demanding work. The music is complex, full of tricky passages that warrant the hours of rehearsal, replete with an infinite number of details, each one of which must be considered and decided upon. In this regard, the musical leadership given the choir over the three months leading up to the performances has been outstanding — demanding of us our best without overreaching our capabilities.

Yet Messiah is also gratifying to perform — and to hear. That it remains an unassailable feature of the modern repertoire throughout the English-speaking world is testimony to this oratorio's ability to speak powerfully to generations of believers and non-believers alike.

These will, in all likelihood, be the first performances of Messiah ever given in Haliburton County. By all the evidence, they will be performances of which the entire community can be proud.

Messiah will be given three performances, all at the Haliburton Legion starting at 8:00 p.m.: Sunday, December 8; Tuesday, December 10; and Sunday, December 15. Tickets for reserved seating are $10 regular admission and $5 for seniors and students. They will be on sale, beginning November 15, at the IDA Drug Store in Minden and at Nancy's Florists in Haliburton. Tickets are not available through choir members.

Brent Titcomb (with guitar) and Louise Lambert (to his left) were the headliners at the benefit concert given for the Women's Safety Network on Sunday, November 3, at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. The concert, organized by Zoe Chilco, also featured a number of local performers including (from left) Jake Fowell, Dave Milligan, Debbie Everett and Amy and Dave Hyde. Not shown are Toos Reid and Larry Medley.

No public interest shown as Minden considers lot levy

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

There doesn't seem to be much interest among residents of Haliburton County in development charges.

Last Friday, Minden council held a public meeting to discuss a proposed development charges by-law and, like the meeting held in Dysart the week before, not a single member of the public appeared.

A development charge, or lot levy, is the amount of money that is collected by the municipality when a new lot is created, either by severance or as part of a subdivision.

The money is used to pay for capital improvements, such as new buildings or equipment, which the municipality must purchase to accommodate growth.

Minden's planner, Jim Dymont, has prepared a study which suggests the municipality should charge $4,272 for each lot created in the village and $863 for each new rural lot. The village rate is higher to accommodate expansion of water and sewer services.

Currently, all new lots in Anson, Hindon and Minden carry a lot levy of $1,000.

At last Friday's meeting, Dymont said the fact that no residents were in attendance is probably a sign that there are no objections to the increased levy.

Under provincial legislation, municipalities are required to carry out a study which justifies the amount of the development charges and pass a by-law setting out the fee structure.

In preparing the study Dymont, with the help of municipal staff, estimated the amount of growth which Minden will experience in the next 10 years and the cost of expanding services to accommodate that growth.

Councillor Lewis Stevens asked Dymont why Minden's development charge is more than $4,000 when Dysart's new levy is only $536. He expressed concern that Minden's charge may be a deterrent to future development.

Dymont explained that

Dysart does not have a water system and is not planning to establish one and has also not planned for an expansion of the sewage system.

The planner said that, unlike other by-laws, there is no time limit for objections to the development charges and anyone can challenge the amount levies at anytime.

If a developer appeals the levy, his objection is first heard by council and, if he is still not satisfied, it is then sent to the Ontario Municipal Board for a hearing.

Council has asked Dymont to make some minor amendments to the by-law and expect to pass it at this Thursday's council meeting.

Outdoor rink disallowed

by Susan Grober

A request to build an outdoor ice rink between the Agnes Jamieson Gallery and County Town Museum was denied by Minden council.

At the October 24 council meeting, Deputy-Reeve Mike

Maher said he isn't against the proposal, but doesn't find it feasible.

"It would be nice to have an outdoor area, but I just don't think it's very practical," he said. "We just can't throw it up and have it there instantly."

Reeve Bern Berry said there is too much heat from the swamp that area, making it difficult to have a good ice finish. In turning down the request, council also expressed concern that the rink would detract from the arena, which provides public skating.

Trent students visit the Highlands

Field trip

John Wadland (far right), chair of the Canadian Studies Program at Trent University and co-professor of the Bio-Regionalism course there, chats with Freda and John Hulbig, (left) of Minden, and two of the students in the course, Vicky Jeffery and Mindy Willett. Wadland and his colleague Tom Willans brought the students in the Bio-Regionalism course, which focuses on this county, to Haliburton for the weekend. Their visit included this open-house session with a number of people from the community at the Haliburton Highlands Museum on the afternoon of Sunday, November 3. The purpose of the gathering was to solicit suggestions from the populace about areas of county life the course could usefully investigate for the future benefit of the area.

Huskies, like the ones which compete in the Minden Sled Dog Derby, are not what some spectators expect them to be. These small muscular animals are bred especially for the task

Sled dogs are well-tuned athletes

Spectators at sled-dog events are often surprised when they see the animals come up to the line. "Gee," they say, "they look kind of skinny." Or "Gee, they're smaller than I expected." Or "Gee, the rest of them look excited, but that one looks as though it doesn't want to run."

The mushers at the Minden Techni-cal Challenge (which will have its eighth running on January 11 and 12, 1992) and other events on the extensive North American racing circuit are used to these sorts of comments. If they have time during a busy race day, they are pleased to explain to interested observers what makes sled-dogs different from the family Fido.

First of all, no athlete, human or canine, can afford to carry around an extra ounce of fat. Just think about what Canadian decathlete Michael Smith or American marathon runner Bill Rogers look like. But both men are in the peak of condition. Like them, these dogs are lean and well-muscled, rather than skinny.

Second, sled-dogs tend to be smaller than people expect. When people think of huskies, they often picture the large Malamutes, which usually weigh about 90 pounds. Racing huskies, on the other hand, generally weigh in the 40- to 50-pound range. This seems to provide the necessary agility and to be a better size for speed and endurance on the race course.

Racing sled-dogs also tend to be high-energy animals, always wanting to get at it and get going. This is partly the result of breeding; dogs with a high-energy attitude are likely to produce dogs with the same attribute. Since that's what mushers want to see in the animals they race with, that's one of the characteristics that is reinforced through breeding.

In preparation for the racing season, sled-dogs (and mushers too) undergo hundreds of hours of carefully planned conditioning and training, supported by a balanced feeding program. But nothing can encourage a dog who isn't interested to run and to pull. That's another trait that results from breeding. A dog without that natural desire can be trained to run but it won't be a top athlete: it can only be pushed so far and then it will refuse to give more. Mushers have to have dogs who want to race as much as they do and the dogs who don't feel the same way don't make the team.

When a team of sled-dogs comes up to the starting line, most of them are jumping and screaming to go — they just can't wait to get at it. But there are often a couple of dogs on a team (more on page 17)

Dogs feel the pressure of competition that are quiet and shaking. The truth is that there is pressure to perform at a race and all the dogs on the team know that. But, just like people, dogs react to it differently.

Once the team gets out of the starting chute and onto the course, however, even the nervous dogs settle down and do what they do best. If they weren't good at, they wouldn't be there. And if they didn't enjoy it, you can be sure they wouldn't be good at it.

If you have any lingering doubts about whether sled-dogs really like to run, just come to the yard where the dog trucks are parked and watch the mushers harness up the teams. The moment the first dog is taken to the sled to be harnessed, the whole truck goes mad with excitement. Everybody's barking, saying, "Take me! Take me!" Once in harness, the dogs still don't calm down. They are so eager to start running that it can take as many as four people to keep an eight-dog team under control as it moves up to the line.

Everyone who comes to the Minden Techni-cal Challenge will have a chance to see all this for themselves. The start/finish line is right in the centre of Main Street, providing everyone with a ring-side view of the action. Racing takes place throughout Saturday and Sunday. The delightful kid-and-mutt race is held on Saturday afternoon, after the official heats in the eight-and four-dog classes. The prizes are presented on Sunday afternoon.

In addition, visitors can enjoy demonstrations of kick-sledding and chat with "Drifter" the race mascot. "Catch The Drift", a song written and recorded by local musicians, will be the theme song for the entire weekend.

ing about ten percent of the school's population. The position of crew counsellor is a coveted one among the students at the local school, despite the disruption the week at the camp can impose on their personal lives, studies, sports and other activities as well as responsibilities to employers. Wilson noted that some students have been encouraged to improve their academic standing to attain a posting as crew counsellor.

Accompanying the nomination are letters of endorsement from HHSS principal Peter Forgrave, John Munro Sunship Study Station director at Camp Wanakita, as well as letters of appreciation from the classes which took part in the program. Among these are notes from students who wrote to their counsellors expressing their appreciation. One youngster wrote, "I just wrote this letter to tell you what a fun time I had there and what a nice counsellor I thought you were.....overall I found the whole experience was really fun. Also included with the nomination package was a tape prepared by one of the classes expressing their appreciation to the counsellors and the camp program.

Clippings from The Times and the Haliburton

The Ontario Junior Citizen awards program is sponsored by the Ontario Community Newspaper Association in co-operation with Canadian Airlines International. The program was designed to recognize young people in the province between the ages of 6 and 18 who have made a exceptional contribution to their community, overcome a significant barrier in their life or been involved in an act of heroism. In the past, the awards committee has recognized up to 12 individuals and one group each year.

The awards are presented by the Lieutenant Governor of the province in February at the annual meeting of the Ontario Community Newspaper Association. Those who are named Junior Citizens of the Year will also be treated to an overnight visit to Toronto with a number of special activities planned. All those nominated will receive a certificate which acknowledges their special contribution to their community and the province.

The announcement of who is selected to receive the honours is expected to be made in mid January.

Decision to allow native hunting in Park is misunderstood

On October 15 of this year the Golden Lake Indian Band began its limited hunts in parts of Algonquin Park. This is an issue that has concerned many tourist operators, hunters and naturalists. Unfortunately, there has been much misinformation about the nature of and the reasons behind the hunt. I hope to answer your concerns here.

First of all, a little background on the history of the Golden Lake Indians may help you to understand the issue. The 1,000 member band is part of the indigenous Algonquin peoples and has resided in the area since before the first Europeans arrived. They first asked the government of Canada to recognize their rights in the late 18th century, but have never signed a treaty with the government. In 1983, they lodged a claim with the federal and the Ontario governments that covers approximately 14,000 square miles of land within the watershed of the Ottawa River. The negotiation of any land claim is complex and involves many levels of government. The federal government is an official observer to the negotiations between the Golden Lake band and the province. In 1989, the Supreme Court of Canada (the noted Sparrow decision) recognized that native people do have a priority for hunting and fishing for personal consumption, as long as conservation and safety are observed.

Public consultation has been part of the process. Among the groups involved in setting the new policy are the Friends of Algonquin, The Federation of Ontario Naturalists and the Federation of Anglers and Hunters, as well as the World Wildlife Fund.

Drainville Diary A report from Queen's Park

With Dennis Drainville, MPP

The hunting rights agreement flows from the commitment the government of Ontario (through the Ministry of Natural Resources) made in land claim negotiations with the Golden Lake band which began on June 15, 1991. The new agreement is an interim one and will expire in August of 1992. It may then provide a framework for other agreements while the land claims negotiations continue.

Right from the outset, public safety, conservation and property rights were acknowledged and protected by all parties to the agreement. There will be no infringement on the public's ability to enjoy the passive recreational uses the park was created for.

These are some of the important highlights of the agreement:

- Within the park, the natives will hunt moose and deer from October 15 to January 15, (a three month period only.)

- Outside the park, but within a designated land claim area, respecting private property rights, the hunt will operate from September 1 to January 15, (a four and a half month period only.)

- The hunting area in the park is restricted to an area north and east of Shirley Lake Road to ensure that, as much as possible, hunting is not in an area used by the bulk of the park visitors. This takes in the north-east section of the park and does not include the Highway 60 route, which is the most used area of the park. The specter of deer and moose being hunted in family campgrounds or on the busy highway is totally false.

- Within the park, no all-terrain vehicles and snowmobiles will be allowed for hunting and there are restrictions on the use of cars and trucks. Once again, the stories of motorized vehicles destroying the park are unfounded. The park will remain free from such vehicles.

Both sides are committed to maintaining the wildlife and its habitat. The hunting allowed will be for food and community use for the native population only and will not include sport or group hunts. A joint committee is being established between the MNR and the native band to gather information necessary for the proper management of hunting, including game inventories, harvesting and biological reports. Of special interest is the respect and maintenance of the loon and wolf population during the hunt (remember, it includes only moose and deer.) The MNR will be responsible for the enforcement of the agreement, as it relates to public safety and private property.

Many have feared a nothing barred, wide-open hunt all year long affecting all of the park and utilizing motorized vehicles. The facts of the agreement show this will not happen. The hunt will be only for deer and moose and will take place during a very specific time period, in a relatively remote area of the park, under careful observation by MNR staff and native leaders. No all-terrain vehicles or snowmobiles will be allowed. At all times, (the very people for whom the park was named), the visitors, the wildlife and the habitat will be paramount.

This is a most fair agreement and goes some way to making amends to our native population for the loss of much of their traditional way of life due to the encroachment of the 'white' society. Most of you know my own personal commitment to native rights. It is an issue I stood up for and in fact went to jail for (I served a week's sentence for participating in the native blockades of the Red Squirrel Logging Road in the Temagami area.) This government is committed to enhancing native self-government.

What we need to do is realize that the aboriginal people of this country have rights that are recognized by the Supreme Court of Canada, rights natives have said they had all along. We must get into a sharing of the management of our resources. This means determining the definitions of conservation, proper enforcement and enhancement of the resource. This means sharing.

The junior Redmen football team faces Trenton in the Central Ontario Championship this Wednesday at 1:30.

Redmen capture Kawartha title

Haliburton ground attack dominates game in 24-9 victory over Raiders

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The junior Redmen football team has claimed the Kawartha Division Championship, beating the Peterborough Raiders 24-9.

The Redmen's success this season has been built on a consistent running game capitalizing on the rushing talents of Andy Bacon, Peter Brohman and Jim Simmons.

In last Thursday's convincing victory over

Peterborough the Redmen stayed with this strategy as Bacon, who set a new school rushing record this season, carried the ball into the end zone for all three Redmen majors.

But, as well as Haliburton moved the ball, the Redmen defensive squad played a vital role in shutting down the Peterborough offense and limiting the Raiders to just nine points.

After forcing Peterborough to punt from mid-field, the Redmen threatened to score on their first possession of the game when Simmons returned the kick to the 10-yard-line.

Haliburton advanced to inside the five-yard-line but failed to score on a third down gamble when a pass from quarterback Kevin Morissette fell short in the end zone.

Still struggling against the Redmen defense, the Raiders could not take advantage of the turn-over and had to punt from inside their own 10. Aided by a no-yards penalty, The Redmen moved the ball back into Raiders' territory. Bacon scored his first touchdown when he fought his way up the middle and ran 20 yards into the end zone. A successful one-point conversion put the Redmen ahead 7-0.

They added to that lead early in the second quarter when the Raiders conceded the single point on a 30-yard punt.

Peterborough came right back however and, after recovering a Haliburton fumble at mid-field, marched the ball down field using a variety of running plays. Their drive came to a halt just inside the Haliburton 20-yard-line, and they had to settle with a fieldgoal to put them on the scoreboard.

Following the Peterborough kick-off, Bacon fumbled the ball for a second time, giving the Raiders possession at their own 45-yard-line.

A 30-yard pass on a half-back option put Peterborough within striking distance, setting up a 15-yard touchdown pass which was caught by a diving Raider in front of two covering Redmen. The convert was missed but Peterborough moved ahead of Haliburton 9-8.

Bacon regained the lead when he picked up a short Raider punt and, breaking through heavy traffic, sprinted 65-yard for what would be the winning touchdown. Kevin Morissette found his brother Mark in the end zone for a two-point conversion, giving the Redmen a 16-9 lead.

The Raider offense, plagued by several roughing penalties and a tough Haliburton defense, was unable to move the ball effectively for the rest of the game.

Bacon added one more unconverted touchdown in third quarter to his scoring total and Peterborough gave up a safety touch late in the game to round out the 24-9 victory.

After the game, Bacon said the Redmen were able to gain momentum by scoring early in the game. Even though they trailed at half-time, he said a pep talk by coach Gary Brohman got the team fired up for the second half.

Brohman said a combination of good running and solid blocking helped Haliburton put together an effective ground attack.

This Wednesday the Redmen will face Trenton High School for the Central Ontario title. The game will be played at HHSS and kick-off is at 1:30 p.m.

The longest yard

Redmen running back Andy Bacon, dragging a pair of Raider defenders along with him, reaches across the goal line to score the first of three touchdowns in last Thursday's victory over Peterborough for the Kawartha Division title.

Men's League Hockey

Westside wins a close one

The following are the results from last Monday's games in the Minden Men's Recreational Hockey League.

Westside 2 - Sid Stamp 1

It was a low scoring affair as Westside Jug City took on Sid Stamp Fuels in the first game of the evening.

Westside's Scott Danilko gave his team the lead when he scored the lone goal of the first period with assists awarded to Jeff Howe and Mike Keaney.

The game winner was scored in the second period by Ed Gibbons. Howe added to his point total with another assist as did Ron May.

Sid Stamp denied Westside's bid for a shutout later in the same period when Doug Schell hit the twine assisted by Paul Walker.

Hartwick defaults to KDD

The game between Hartwick Construction and Kountry Double D Catering was over before it began as Hartwick was forced to default due to a shortage of players.

The two teams played out the game anyway, with KDD scoring seven goals to Hartwick's two. Despite being low on manpower, Hartwick kept the contest interesting, at least through the opening period, and trailed by a score of 3-2. KDD came on in the second period and, taking advantage of the tiring Hartwick players, scored four unanswered goals.

Scoring for KDD were Scott Hamilton, who scored six of the seven goals, and Doug Ray, who added a single. Tom Miscio and Jeff Stamp scored the two Hartwick goals.

Times 7 - Home 2

Home Hardware may have iced enough players against The Times but it didn't help as they lost 7-2 in the third game of the night.

Dan Allison gave The Times an early lead with his first period goal, assisted by Doug Allison and Kelly Gilles. Home tied it up minutes later on a goal by Dave Rogers, with assists from Garry Harrison and Carey Gilligan.

Midway through the first period, The Times blew the game wide open, scoring five unanswered goals. Contributing to the frenzy were Craig Crowe and Doug Allison, each with a pair of goals, and Derek Allison with another single.

Home player Dave Rogers managed to give his team one more point, but Doug Allison answered with another for The Times, rounding out his hat-trick.

Local skaters do well at Huntsville's Skokie Skate

Four members of the Minden Figure Skating Club participated at the Skokie Skate held in Huntsville recently. They are Tristin Pawluch and Andrea Pawluch (standing) and Janene Garbutt and Cori Barkwell (kneeling).

Fall school a success

The Highland Skating School held another successful Fall school at the Haliburton arena with 43 skaters from the Minden and Haliburton clubs participating, the highest number ever! It is growing!

Every level of skating was involved from the Beginner Canslate badge to 8th figure and Gold Freeskate and Dance. The school was fortunate to have as coaches, Mary Donovan, David Hollows, Mike Sanderson, Jane Symons, Lisa Carr and Danielle LaRue.

During the last week a pizza party took place where Canslate badges were also awarded. Test day for the seniors was held on October 19 with the following tests passed:

Figure - Preliminary,

Kate Campbell; 2nd Sarah Brohm.

Freeskate - Preliminary Julie Vanderlip, Katrina Matysek and Sarah Brohm. Jr. Bronze, Jennifer Turner. Bronze Artistic Janene Garbutt.

Dances - Senior Bronze - Ten Fox Jody Reid; Fourteen Step Erin Turner; European Dawn Hebert. Gold - Argentine Lisa Carr.

The Minden Figure Skating Club had three senior skaters compete at the 13th annual Skokie Skate in Huntsville on November 1, 2 and 3.

All three skaters were in the Pre-Novice category. The top three skaters in each flight qualified for the finals. The results are:

Flight 1 - Cori Barkwell, 2nd: Final, 3rd.

Flight 2 - Janene Garbutt,

6th.

Flight 3 - Andrea Pawluch, 5th.

Congratulations to all the skaters for their accomplishments.

Five Minden skaters qualify for sectional skating championship

We have five! We have five! The Minden Skating Club has five skaters representing our club at Sectionals!

Sectionals is the 1992 Sun Life Eastern Ontario Sectional Figure Skating Championships. This is the 23rd year for this event. This year it is being held in Nepean from November 14-17.

This competition is the first qualifying round for the Canadian Championships. The winners in the higher categories (not Juvenile or Pre-Novice) advance to divisionals where they compete for the honor of advancing to the Canadians.

This year we have two competitors in the Juvenile category and three in the Pre-Novice category. Each category has qualifications regarding test level and age. In the Juvenile category are Marita Schrader and Kristi Barkwell.

In the Pre-Novice category are, Andrea Pawluch, Janene Garbutt and Cori Barkwell.

The number of entries in these two categories have been so numerous in the past years that there is a 'Free-skate Run-Off' and only 12 competitors will advance to the final round, which will consist of both figures and free-skating.

The rookies this year are Marita and Andrea. This is the second year for Janene and Kristi, who competed last year in Peterborough. This is Cori's third year, having competed in Brockville and Peterborough. All of these skaters are guided by the coaching expertise of Jane Symons. This is Jane's 11th year with the club.

At the arena, we have tried to stimulate an actual competition setting. One night the skaters performed for the Can-skate children, while another evening (with the help of posters) brought seniors from the nearby apartments. The girls were asked to wear an appropriate dress and they drew numbers for their skating order. Each skater was presented one by one to the music they will be taking to sectionals.

We wish the skaters and the coach all the best at sectionals. We commend them for their determination and hard work. We hope each day brings a personal best and achievement to be proud of.

Good luck in Nepean!

Minden Pee Wees beat Woodville scoring six unanswered goals

On Saturday, November 2 Woodville travelled to Minden to face off against our OMHA Pee Wee team. Once again the boys showed that if they played as a team, they could win.

Minden started off the scoring in the first period at 11:40 with a great goal by Andrew McKelvey, assisted by Justin Rowden. Then at 5:35 Andrew McKelvey scored again, unassisted. The third goal in the first period was shot in at 4:27 by Curtis Fielding, assisted by Tom Bagshaw and Dave Raback.

In the second period, at 7:44, Marty Dettman scored a great goal, assisted by Dennis Woods and Jeff Wray. At 6:07 Dave Raback popped one in, assisted by Dennis Woods. A few seconds later at 5:20 Dave Raback scored his second goal of the game, assisted by Chris Eskelin. At 2:08, Woodville managed to

Junior Redmen football team - 1991 Kawartha Division Champs

Haliburton Highlands Secondary School's junior football program added to its impressive collection of trophies last Thursday when they beat the Peterborough Raiders 24-9 in Haliburton. This week the team will attempt to secure yet another piece of hardware as they play Trenton for the Central Ontario title.

Rowden earns third shutout

slip one past Justin Rowden for their only goal of the game.

After a short rest, both teams came back out on the ice ready for another game of exciting hockey. At 10:02 Andrew McKelvey scored again, unassisted. Another short handed goal for Andrew, also a hat trick! Once more at 9:52 Dave Raback sent one home for Minden, assisted by Tom Bagshaw, David's third goal of the game, a hat trick also! At 8:12 Marty Dettman drove in a goal unassisted. The last goal of the game came at 2:06 by Dennis Woods, unassisted.

Our defencemen were on their toes the whole game. Tom Neville, Andrew McKelvey, Daniel Howell and Chris Eskelin should be congratulated for a job well done.

Great goal-tending from Justin Rowden.

Final score: Minden 10, Woodville 1.

The next day, Sunday, November 5, Minden travelled to Fenelon Falls. The game proved to be fast and hard hitting.

The first period of the game was scoreless. Both teams tried but no one seemed to be able to score.

In the second period, Marty Dettman scored our first goal at 10:19, assisted by Dennis Woods and Jeff Wray. This was the only goal in the second period. Fenelon tried but our goalie, Justin Rowden, was on his toes, as were our defencemen.

With no break between the second and third periods, Minden scored in the third period at 14:14 with a goal by Dennis Woods. Wanting to chalk up our score, Jeff Wray scored two more goals, one at 13:45 and the other at 6:10. The assists of these goals were not entered on the score sheet.

Final score: Minden 4, Fenelon 0.

Another shut-out for Justin Rowden, his third shut-out of the season.

Our next game is in Minden on Saturday, November 9 at 3:30 pm when we face off against Oakwood.

Tourism will be discussed at COTA meeting

On November 25th "Getaway Country", the Central Ontario Travel Association, will be hosting a one day seminar aimed at tourism owners/operators, tourist associations, municipalities/counties and festival and events coordinators.

The seminar will take place at the Best Western Coburg Inn and will run from 9:00 am until 4:00 pm. Following the workshops the honorable Peter North, Minister of Tourism and Recreation, will be the guest dinner speaker. Seminar topics throughout the day will include developing a strong business plan and current marketing strategies, featuring the Director of the Canadian Research Institute, as well as the Director of Marketing for the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation.

Central Ontario Travel Association is one of 12 organizations throughout Ontario created to act as a tourism marketing agency which reflects the character of the tourism and hospitality industry within its region.

"Getaway Country" includes the counties of Haliburton, Hastings, Northumberland, Peterborough, Prince Edward, Victoria and the regions of Durham and York.

Although the government does participate financially, Ontario Travel Associations (OTAPS) are a totally independent body and not a government agency. OTAPS are not viewed as dispensing grants but their function is to market an entire region. If you wish further information, please contact "Getaway Country" at (705) 745-1321.

Kids' Korner

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF STANHOPE

PUBLIC NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Municipal Corporation of the Township of Stanhope, proposes to enact a by-law to stop-up, close and convey to the abutting property owners those parts of the original shore road allowance set out and described as follows:

FIRSTLY: All and Singular that certain parcels or tracts of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Stanhope in the County of Haliburton and being composed of part of the 66' original shore road allowance lying in front of Lot 11 Concession VI along the east side of the Kennis River being more particularly described as Parts 6, 7 and 8 on a Plan 19R 5218 deposited in the Registry Office for the Registry Division of the County of Haliburton.

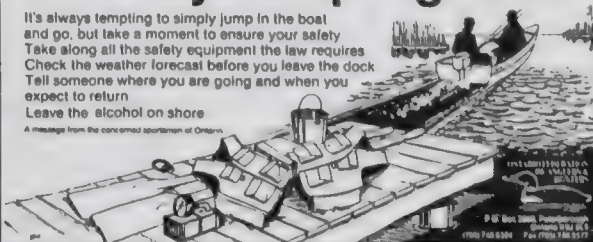

THE PROPOSED BY-LAW will come before the said council for consideration at its regular meeting of council at the Municipal Office in the Township of Stanhope on the 11th day of December, 1991 at the hour of 11:45 A.M., and at that time, the Council will hear in person or by his/her counsel, solicitor or agent any person who claims that his land will be prejudicially affected and who applies to be heard.

Lest We Forget

SADLY TOO LATE

I watched a man, who came to the park each day,
To feed the birds and watch the children at play.
He walked with a cane to support his knees,
Where this man had been was plain to see.

A man of the war, I said to my self,
I could tell by his dress he was not of great wealth.
How faithful he had been to all mankind,
A time to help him had been on my mind.

But, busy as I am with trailers and ladders,
I did not find time to look into this matter.
And every day my heart seems to say,
There are so many ways I could brighten his days.

Then one day this man disappeared,
In the park he no longer appeared.
I wanted to help and be a friend to this vet,
It was most unfortunate that we never met.

I approached a friend who passed by that way
And asked him, "Has the old man come away?"
"You mean the old vet who was so kind and fair?"
I am sorry to say he has moved upstairs."

So take the time to find out and help others,
After all, these veterans, they are our brothers.

A happy Canadian environmental story

Today I want to celebrate a rarity - a happy environmental story in which Canada has played a prominent role. It concerns an issue of vital importance to all people - fresh water and the impact of human activity on it. The story begins in 1964 when the International Joint Commission recommended a study on the state of water in the Great Lakes.

A year later, an interim report documented significant eutrophication, an explosive growth of algae due to over fertilization that ultimately sucks up oxygen and chokes off other life forms. The study urged more research to identify the impact of human activity on water and to develop guidelines for legislation.

In response, the Fisheries Research Board of Canada, a government unit now absorbed by the Department of Fisheries and Oceans, began to seek a research area. Forestry companies and the Ontario government agreed to set aside a tract of forest southeast of Kenora for research purposes only.

The Experimental Lakes Area (ELA) contained 46 lakes ranging in size from 5 to 60 hectares that could be experimented on.

In 1968, ecologist David Schindler was recruited to spearhead the studies on the ELA. Under his direction, the ELA has proved to be a scientific motherlode, yielding results recognized by scientists around the world and affecting legislation in Canada, the U.S. and the European Economic Community.

The first problem was prompted by severe eutrophication in Lake Erie. By adding controlled amounts of carbon, nitrogen and phosphorus compounds to different lakes, Schindler's team confirmed in 1973 that the major contribu-

Reflections

by David Suzuki

tor to eutrophication were phosphates from sewage and detergents (where they "put brightness in your wash.")

Canada immediately limited phosphates in detergents and urged more tertiary sewage treatment. In the U.S., Schindler influenced many states to follow suit in the ensuing years although Ohio didn't act until 1988.

As phosphate levels fell, recovery of Lake Erie and lakes in Haliburton and Muskoka was spectacular and corroborated the value of the ELA. Schindler recognized acid rain as a concern to come and in 1974, before the government developed a policy, began to study the lakes so that the deliberate addition of sulfuric acid could be started in 1976.

The studies showed that as a lake became more acidic, plant and animal species disappeared in a specific sequence. As prey species at the base of the food chain were lost, there was "a cascade of extinction" back up to species of large fishes.

When acidification was stopped and the waters diluted out the acid, species began to return in the reverse order from their disappearance (the recruits came back through rivers connecting the lakes.)

Through these studies, Schindler was able to set levels of acidity that could be absorbed and still allow the recovery of lakes. Those levels became targets to be set by governments and negotiated in transnational discussions.

The ELA work on eutrophication and acidification has resulted in more than $8 billion in government commitments to implement the standards that resulted. Over the 20 year span of the ELA, the average temperature in the region has risen by more than 2 degrees Celsius.

In what could be his most significant work, Schindler and his colleagues have begun to measure the temperature effects on the biological makeup of the lakes as a prelude to understanding the long term consequences of global warming.

The announcement of the Stockholm Water Prize, a new award comparable to a Nobel Prize, says "one of the greatest threats to our very existence today is environmental pollution, not least of our water."

Water is such a prerequisite for all life on earth that it cannot be a matter of only national concern: it is an international question." On August 14, David Schindler was awarded the first Stockholm Water Prize of $150,000 (U.S.).

Schindler richly deserves the recognition and all of us should take pride in the farsighted commitment made by federal and provincial governments and the team of scientists who participated in this outstanding project.

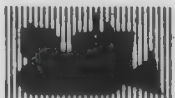

I regret adding a sorry postscript. Sadly, the ELA, a unique and ground breaking project that shows the value of whole lake and long-term studies, has suffered from funding neglect by the federal government.

Schindler told me the ELA could very well shut down for lack of support next year. It would be the ultimate irony if, when the ELA has received such recognition and when the need for more hard data is even more urgent, Canada would let it wither away.

Annual bazaar plans set

The weekend, as usual, was quiet except for chapel service by Rev. John Burgess with Alice Jones playing the organ. Thank you Rev. Burgess and Alice.

Monday was the monthly meeting of the Hyland Crest Auxiliary. There was a good attendance and much business was accomplished. Plans were completed for the Christmas Tea and Bazaar to be held Wednesday, November 6 at 2 p.m.

A showing of the video of the celebration of 25 years of caring at Hyland Crest was in the Trillium Lounge.

In the evening, Pat

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

Bradburn and Fern Donnelly came to show movies but only one was able to be seen. It was "Kidnapped". We do appreciate their coming.

Tuesday chapel service was conducted by Pastor Murray and we thank him sincerely. This was followed by crafts in the afternoon.

Wednesday was crafts again and we bagged some candy for Hallowe'en.

Thursday some of the Hyland Crest Staff came dressed in costumes, that brightened the day. In the afternoon, the ladies of the Minden Women's Institute provided the tea party. There were seven ladies who served the delicious tea, Mary Cox, Bea Berry, Annie Kernohan, Maude Kernohan, Jean Cox, Mabel Deacon and a new member, Mary Wilson. It was also the Birthday Tea party for the month of October. Those who celebrated were Lucy Burgess on October 6, Marjory McIntosh on October 6, Ethel Shaw on October 7, Lula Ferrill on the 9th, Mary Smith on the 26th, Robina Thomas on the 27th and Robert Mitchell on the 22nd. A singalong followed our tea with Mary Cox playing the piano. We enjoyed it very much and thank the ladies and Mary greatly.

In the evening, as usual, the goblins were out and we had them in for a shell out.

There were 250 who came and to make it very enjoyable we had music the entire evening. Doris Robertson played the piano, Don Alton plucked the guitar, Norm Graham played the fiddle, Llyn Shirley rattled on the spoons and Ted Robinson strummed on the banjo. The residents and everyone had a happy evening and we thank the musicians enormously and we also thank Linda Fry for supplying us with fresh popcorn.

My great niece, Diane, her husband Claude, Grant and Heather from Virginia Beach came Friday afternoon and took me to my sister May Cameron's home in Peterborough to help celebrate May and Roy Cameron's 60th wedding anniversary which was held Sunday, November 3, 1991.

I came home Sunday night with Terry and Norma Barnum. This caused me to miss Happy Hour with entertainment by Charlie Hadley, Bob White and Ted Robinson and cared for by our faithful volunteers. We thank everyone very much.

Lung Association celebrates 85 years of Christmas seals with 1991 campaign

The Lung Association is proud to be celebrating 85 years of tradition and community service through its annual Christmas Seal Campaign. This is a campaign that represents caring and the gift of good health not only at the holiday season but year round.

The Christmas Seal Campaign began in the early 1900's to raise funds to combat tuberculosis. With this disease under control, the Lung Association is now concerned with the prevention and control of all lung diseases, including asthma, chronic bronchitis, emphysema and smoking prevention.

Lung Disease is not a laughing matter. Comic Howie Mandel knows that and is the Christmas Seal Campaign honorary spokesperson. Mr. Mandel has generously denoted his time and appears in the print and electronic public service announcements for the campaign.

The Lung Association's 1991 provincial goal for the Christmas Seal Campaign is $4.7 million. the goal for Victoria-Haliburton is $40,000. Much of these funds will be used in Victoria and Haliburton counties for local programs and patient assistance.

The Lung Association is Canada's oldest voluntary not-for-profit health promotion organization. It conducts public health education and research, and public awareness programs which are supported by donations to the Christmas Seal Campaign and by other voluntary contributions.

COUNTY OF HALIBURTON ROADS DEPARTMENT

SNOW REMOVAL

The Highway Traffic Act RSO 1980, C198 - S147, revised 1982 states "No person shall park or stand a vehicle on a highway to interfere with the clearing of snow". A constable may have the vehicle removed from the roadway and stored at the owner's expense.

Section 157 states "No person shall deposit snow or ice on a roadway without permission in writing from the road authority responsible for maintenance of the road" The penalty on conviction is a fine of not more than $50.00.

The co-operation of all motorists in these matters would be appreciated for efficient winter maintenance of County Roads and the safety of others.

Glamorgan candidate does not bear the Chamber any ill will

On November 7th I had the opportunity to speak with Beverly MacDuff. She reviewed with me the contents of her letter to the editor and her other concerns. In the end I hope we did come to a cordial agreement about common goals in the county. Political Candidates Meetings are stressful for all involved and what she said or how she said it is always open to interpretation.

She did assure me that she

Chamber News

by Shawn Hagerman

has no personal animosity towards me, the Chamber or its directors. Her intent with her comments was that she looked for better fiscal planning and management of the Chamber and its resources. I do regret and apologize for not confirming with Ms.

MacDuff what her intent was instead of depending upon what I heard. I do wish her well in the upcoming election.

On November 4, I travelled to Peterborough to attend an important emergency Central Ontario Travel Association (COTA) meeting. COTA had got wind of a special Ontario government program, Celebrate Ontario, to help promote local special events. There is $18,000 available to non-profit groups who are holding special events between now and the end of March 1992 for the COTA region.

Ideal candidates for the programs are such things as the Minden Sled Dog Derby, The LOOP Winter Carnival, the Maple Syrup Festival in Wilberforce or any non-profit event or winter carnival. The money must be used for advertising, i.e. posters, newspaper ads, radio or TV ads etc. Also, for example, our toll-free line could be used on a fee for service basis with the Chamber and the ads placed in one of the Toronto papers.

COTA is also hoping to fund a one day long training seminar on how to raise funds and attract corporate sponsors and make it available to organizers of special events. For further details you should call our Chamber office in Minden, or better, Sharon Smith, the new COTA manager in Peterborough. All submissions for funds must be at COTA no later than November 29. The COTA marketing committee will then sit down and allocate the funds.

On a more disappointing note, in the category of "It looks like the big one that got away", John Good, representing the Trent-Severn Waterways, announced that the old Kanawa Museum Board of Directors has been dissolved and that Kirk Wipper has sold his collection of canoes (the largest in the world) to a new foundation called Canadian Canoe Museum. This group is currently looking into purchasing a site in the Peterborough area, building a museum and moving the collection there. This is going to be a tremendous loss for the County of Haliburton, as this collection could have been the basis for a much needed attraction that would be an integral asset to our community.

Finally, don't forget the Annual Meeting November 20 at Bonnie View Inn. No supper (cost saving) and election of directors. If you want on the ballot let Godfrey Tyler, Dennis Casey or me know immediately. This is one of the most important meetings in our Chamber's history. Make time and come.

Crime of the week

Mower reels stolen

Sometime during the end of July 1991, 2 mower grass cutting reels were stolen from the area of the Pro Shop at the Pinestone Inn, located on Highway 121 west of the village of Haliburton. The mower reels are described as orange in color, weighing approximately 300 lbs each, make Jacobsen. The total value of these reels is estimated at $2500.

If you have any information about this or any other crime, call Lindsay Crimestoppers at 1-800-563-TIPS (8477). You will never be asked to reveal your identity or to testify in court. If your information leads to an arrest Lindsay Crimestoppers will pay up to $1,000 in cash.

"R-2000 construction includes air-tight vapour seals around windows and electrical outlets."
Oliver Drerup, R-2000 Spokesperson.

What to look for when buying a new home.

For the past 10 years I've studied building techniques to discover how to build a better home. A home that would meet the needs of today's energy and comfort conscious home buyers. What I learned was that one home — the R-2000 home — is your best choice. Why? Well, there are a lot of reasons. Here are just a few.

Superior Construction

- greater attention to detail prevents excess air leakage.
- continuous operating ventilation system offers superior indoor air quality all year round.

More Comfort

- reduces cold spots and drafts, with even temperature from attic to basement.

Lower Heating Costs

- the R-2000 home saves you money because it is more energy efficient than a conventionally built home.

Individually Inspected

- every R-2000 home is inspected and awarded a certificate if it meets R-2000 standards.

QUALIFIED PURCHASERS CAN RECEIVE A $2,000 REBATE FROM ONTARIO HYDRO.

THE BETTER-BUILT HOME

Look for the R-2000 Excellence sign at your local builder.
The R-2000 home, it's the "Better-Built Home."

The R-2000 program is supported by: Ontario Hydro; Ministry of Energy; Energy, Mines & Resources Canada.

TVOntario's Advisory Council Seeks Applicants

TVOntario, the province's educational broadcaster, is seeking applications from the Haliburton area for a seat on its Southcentral Regional Council.

TVOntario's 75 volunteer regional councillors, in five councils, meet regularly in their regions to advise TVOntario on their communities' educational and cultural needs, and to increase awareness in their communities of TVO's programs and services.

Applicants should be dynamic individuals who are active in their community; be aware of TVOntario's role as a public broadcaster, and of its programs and services; be willing to undertake projects within the community to raise awareness of TVOntario; be interested in identifying ways in which TVOntario can best serve the community within the region; and be available for weekend travel quarterly in the region.

TVOntario regional councillors are appointed for terms of up to three years, renewable once. Duties for this council position will begin 1 April 1992.

If you wish to obtain more information in order to be considered for this challenging volunteer position, please telephone the Advisory Councils office toll-free at 1-800-387-8450, extension 2615 during office hours.

Applicants must contact TVOntario before Friday, 15 November 1991.

CARDS OF THANKS

It was great to be invited out for dinner at Loreale Country Inn, then to walk in and see all my family, and friends there to wish me a happy birthday. What a surprise. I would like to thank everyone for this happy occasion, for flowers, gifts, music and songs by my grandchildren. Many thanks and God Bless you all.
 Mary Cox

I would like to thank Doris Hamilton for taking my daughter Jane and I to Toronto to be with Charlie through his operation, also my granddaughter Jenny who kept house and took care of Brad while I was away, also Shirley and Jim Harvey. Bill and Terry McKelvey who provided me with bed and breakfast and transportation to and from hospital for Peter and Debbie Anderson for bringing us home.
 Thanks again and may God bless you all.
 Audrey Trumbull

I would like to thank the doctors and nurses who were so good to me while I was in Haliburton, Bracebridge and Toronto hospitals. Also, Dr. Curtis, Pastor Murray and Margaret Lenard and Mary Nesbitt who came to see me while I was in Wellesley hospital. Also the cards and phone calls and the prayer chain they had for me here at home. I'm home again very weak but not feeling too bad.
 Thank you all again and may God bless you all.
 Charlie Kent

Thanks to everyone who organized, attended, performed and donated services to the recent musical benefit for the YWCA, Women's Safety Network. It was a huge success. Special thanks to Zoe for her commitment and energy in organizing this event.

CARDS OF THANKS

On behalf of the Blairhampton Hunt Club I would like to thank the Kawartha Dairy family and staff for their assistance during moose season.
 Alvin Miscio.

IN MEMORIAM

ALGER, Kenneth Gordon: In loving memory of a beloved husband, father and grandfather who passed away November 16, 1989.

It's been two long years,
 With a lot of tears.
 The memories still unfold,
 And funny stories are told.
 But we still miss your smile
 And wish you hadn't had to walk that last long mile.

Ever loved and missed by Wife Joan, Sue and Arthur, Bill and Bob, Trevor and Matthew, Sarah and Andrew.

AT REST

McNEIL, Lydia, peacefully at Hyland Crest Senior Citizens' Home, Minden on Wednesday, October 30, 1991 in her 91st year. Beloved wife of the late Roy McNeil. Dear mother of Truman of Minden and Phyllis (Mrs. D. Sutherland) of Minden. Dear sister of Charlie and predeceased by Rena, Laura, Leslie, Thern, Wilbert, Walter, Hazel, Winnifred, Marie and Harry. Loving great aunt of many nieces and nephews. Rested at the Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home, Minden from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Friday, November 1. Funeral service was held in the chapel on Saturday, November 2, at 11:00 a.m. Interment Bethel Cemetery. Memorial donations to Heart and Stroke Foundation would be appreciated.

BE A POWER SAVER

This fall, Hydro is planting bulbs all over your neighbourhood.

They're 52-watt energy saving bulbs. And two of them are being delivered to households in Ontario this month. They'll arrive at your door in a 100% recycled plastic bag.*

You can use the 52-watt bulbs to replace regular 60-watt bulbs. The bulbs use 13% less electricity with only a subtle difference in light output. And, since they fit into any standard fixture, becoming a Power Saver is as easy as changing a light bulb.

Return the plastic bag to our office and we'll see that it's recycled - again!

We'll also spell out other ways to save.

Along with the bulbs you'll get a brochure that tells you all about the different kinds of energy saving lighting available and how to use them. Plus, Power Saver rebates of up to $5.00 are available on the purchase of qualifying energy saving bulbs.

So use your 52-watt bulbs, read the brochure, and look for energy saving lighting alternatives at your local retailer.
